Re: Issue of Faculty Assigning their own Texts to Students

The Committee on Educational Policy reviewed the issue of faculty assigning their own texts to students for the courses they instruct at their March 11, 2016 meeting. The Committee opined that the issue is not a problem at UCR, but is primarily a perception issue. The Committee commented that it would not be advisable to implement a policy to address the issue, as sometimes a faculty member's text is the best in their field or is the only text to cover the curriculum for a course.
