Re: VPUE Proposal for Teaching Credit for Faculty-led Internship Courses

The Committee on International Education reviewed the Vice Provost for Undergraduate Education's proposal for teaching credit for Faculty-led internship courses at their January 9 meeting. The Committee is generally supportive of the idea of awarding teaching credit for internships and that by doing so UCR would be consistent with at least some other UC campuses. The Committee requests that more information be provided to detail if the proposal is for the consideration of awarding teaching credit for internships or is a mandate for a policy. The Committee also commented that the proposal to award teaching credit for internship courses should be an option that is available but should not be mandated in such a way that would interfere with a department's assignment of faculty teaching loads.
