To be adopted:

Proposed Changes in Comparative Literature Major

Present:

1. Lower-division requirements (16 units plus proficiency)
   a) Proficiency in at least one foreign language, ancient or modern, through the intermediate level (second year)
   b) WRLT 015
   c) WRLT 017A, WRLT 017B, WRLT 017C

2. Upper-division requirements (56 units)
   a) Twenty (20) units in one literature, distributed as much as possible among courses representing the various literary periods
   b) Twelve (12) units in a second literature
   c) WRLT 110
   d) Twenty (20) units in Comparative Literature and World Literature

Students contemplating graduate study in Comparative Literature are urged to complete two years in a third (or second foreign) language before graduation. Undergraduate units taken on an S/NC basis may not be applied toward the minimum unit requirement for the B.A. degree, unless such units are taken outside Comparative Literature and a student's first and second literatures.

Justification:

At a recent meeting, the Comparative & World Literature Program has voted to eliminate the WRLT abbreviation from our undergraduate curriculum and change the rubric for all WRLT courses to CPLT, and to change the name of the program to Comparative Literature. Accordingly, we have to make some editorial changes to the current Comparative Literature Major description as follows:
