P.S. Gorecki, Secretary-Parliamentarian
Riverside Division of the Academic Senate
MEETING
The Riverside Division of the Academic Senate met on Tuesday, February 24, 2015 at 2:10 p.m. in the Genomics Auditorium Room 1102A. Chair J. Wudka presided. The meeting was attended by 58 members of the Riverside Division of the Academic Senate.

MINUTES
The Minutes of the Regular Meeting of December 2, 2014 were approved as presented.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT
There were no announcements by the President.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE CHANCELLOR AT RIVERSIDE
Chancellor Kim A. Wilcox addressed the Division. The Chancellor noted that the Governor and President have created a committee they are calling the “Committee of Two” or light-heartedly “CO2,” which has met three times to discuss the UC System. The Committee will meet with staff members and experts to discuss various topics related to the University, including its budget and costs. Chancellor Wilcox will keep the Division posted on the outcome of the Committee meetings.

Chancellor Wilcox discussed the physical Master Plan “visioning session” that took place on February 24, 2015 and was the kick-off meeting for the long-range planning process.

Chancellor Wilcox discussed the Organizational Excellence Speaker Series session that took place on February 23, 2015. The meeting featured a speaker from the University of Washington who led a discussion about how LEAN administrative practices have created greater efficiencies and cost savings on his campus. There are three more meetings in the Organizational Excellence series scheduled. The Chancellor informed the Division that the idea behind the Organizational Excellence series is to bring a broader conversation to the campus similar to the conversation led by the Provost & Executive Vice Chancellor (PEVC) to restructure the University. The Chancellor reminded the Division that the administration did not pursue the reorganization idea because there was not enough support for it. The Chancellor encouraged the Division to attend the Organizational Excellence series meetings.

Chancellor Wilcox concluded his announcements and accepted questions from the floor. A member asked if the Chancellor knew how many meetings of the Committee of Two are to take place and the Chancellor replied that the intent is for the Committee to have 4 to 5 meetings.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE VICE CHANCELLORS
PEVC Paul D’Anieri addressed the Division.

PEVC D’Anieri discussed several initiatives that UCR is working on, which include organizational excellence, the master plan, review of campus space, and the faculty hiring initiative. The PEVC commented that it is exciting to see the number of initiatives under way at UCR and the amount of people involved in them.

PEVC D’Anieri was asked by Senate Chair Wudka to give his vision of the colleges of CNAS and CHASS now that the proposal for campus reorganization is no longer going forward. The PEVC informed the Division that he has the same vision for all colleges on campus. The vision is for the college faculty to conduct compelling research, serve the community, and do a great job of educating UCR’s students. The PEVC commented that CHASS and CNAS are the core of the undergraduate educational mission at UCR and informed the Division that UCR is in the early stages of implementing searches for the position of Dean in both colleges. The Dean’s searches will focus on the research and service missions of the colleges and on ensuring that both colleges provide the courses needed for students to graduate in four years and the courses needed by undergraduates from other colleges and schools on campus to accomplish their goals.

The PEVC concluded his announcements and accepted questions from the floor. A member asked the PEVC a question about hiring according to disciplinarily defined plans and clusters. The PEVC responded that if UCR hires faculty in groups and clusters, it will serve the disciplines well and all faculty will have a home in a department. With cluster hiring, the Deans will be able to recycle their resources and be given more latitude to use the assets already present in their budgets.

A member questioned if the resources to fund the hire of cluster faculty will come from a loan. PEVC D’Anieri responded that a loan has never been mentioned as a means of funding for the new faculty hires and noted that the administration has a plan to fund the first 100 hires. The Administration is currently working to develop a funding plan for the second set of 100 faculty hires, which will be dependent on tuition and enrollment growth. The PEVC informed the Division that the funding for the planned third set of 100 faculty hires, will depend on the growth of the student body, how resources from the University are directed, and the tuition sustainability plan.

Chair Wudka called upon the Vice Chancellor (VC) for Planning & Budget, Maria Anguiano, to address the Division. VC Anguiano took the opportunity to discuss the space utilization study, master plan, and budget redesign.

VC Anguiano discussed the space utilization study and informed the Division that the 3 questions to be answered by the study are: 1) Can 300 new faculty hires be accommodated with offices and research space in the next 5 years; 2) How many people can be accommodated with the current space; and 3) How much more space is needed. The next steps to finalize the space utilization survey are to complete the review and validation of data, consider options for space standards, generate metrics, and compile the report and recommendations. VC Anguiano shared that the report will include short term and long term goals and when the study is completed, there will be an implementation phase.

VC Anguiano accepted questions from the floor about the space utilization study. A member questioned why none of the academic departments were consulted as the space study was conducted. VC Anguiano responded that the study assessed space utilization and included focus groups with select faculty from across the campus. VC Anguiano shared that the implementation phase will last about 6 months and will require much discussion with further opportunities for faculty to consult.

VC Anguiano discussed the physical master plan study, which will provide a long term view and include conversations about understanding UCR’s current space and infrastructure. Guiding principles for the study include ensuring UCR is a people centric campus, the consideration of campus aesthetics, and the accessibility of the campus. VC Anguiano encouraged members to attend the visioning session to be held on February 24, 2015 at 5:30PM in UNEX. The report from this workshop will be available by March 10, 2015 and there will be several more workshops over the next year. VC Anguiano shared that the project team includes the Chancellor, steering committee, project management team, physical master plan study team and working groups. The four phases of the physical master plan study are: understanding, integrating, validating vision and implementing.

VC Anguiano discussed the budget redesign guiding principles and reviewed the 3 phases of the process. VC Anguiano shared that Phase 1 involves defining the future budget vision and guiding principles, Phase 2 involves assessing the redesign, and Phase 3 entails the implementation of the budget redesign. VC Anguiano thanked the Senate Planning & Budget Committee for their help with the budget redesign process and noted that UCR will be ready to use the new model for the next budget cycle.

VC Anguiano concluded her announcements and accepted questions from the floor. A member questioned how the administration will address departments that are understaffed and if there are plans to hire more staff in light of the budget redesign, space utilization study, and new faculty hires. VC Anguiano shared with the Division an example from the University of Washington, where the administration re-engineered key grant and contracts accounting processes that allowed for increased efficiency and effectiveness without the hiring of additional staff. VC Anguiano informed the Division that UCR needs to examine how processes are conducted and determine if staff workload includes extra non value work which prevents staff from doing more significant work instead.

Chancellor Wilcox noted that the budget redesign will examine faculty and staff workloads in addition to assessing how UCR can make processes more effective and efficient. The Chancellor informed the Division that the budget redesign will also examine the implications for the rationale for the distribution of funds, which has the potential to present challenges.

Chair Wudka called upon Associate Vice Chancellor (AVC) for Diversity, Excellence and Equity, Yolanda Moses, to address the Division. AVC Moses took the opportunity to present a presentation on the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA).

AVC Moses informed the Division that the VAWA reauthorization of 2013 amends the Clery Act with regards to sexual violence. The new reporting requirements add new categories of reportable crimes which include national origin, gender identity, domestic and dating violence, and stalking. AVC Moses shared that the VAWA reauthorization has influenced the Office of Title IX and the police department to work more closely together.
AVC Moses discussed the new VAWA 2014 requirements. AVC Moses shared in the past, the focus of investigations has been on the victim, but with the new guidelines, policies and procedures have been implemented for the accused as well.

AVC Moses discussed the UC policies and procedures for Title IX officers on each campus that are responsible for investigating administrative complaints and advising of the appropriate disciplinary process. AVC Moses shared that Campus police conduct investigations when criminal conduct is reported and that the UC System has both Systemwide and local policies for implementing procedures, which were revised to meet VAWA requirements by March 2014. UCR is currently reviewing the existing local policies and procedures and is working to revise them by July 2015 to include the student code of conduct, academic personnel manual, and the personnel policies for staff members.

AVC Moses shared that in June 2014, UC President Napolitano created the UC Task Force on sexual assault and sexual violence, which formed working groups from functional areas to support and implement the recommendations of the Task Force. In January 2015, the Taskforce established independent, confidential advocacy offices on each campus and established a Systemwide website on preventing and responding to sexual violence.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE DEANS OR OTHER EXECUTIVE OFFICERS
There were no announcements by the Deans or other Executive Officers

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE CHAIR
Chair Wudka advised the Division that the Open Access policy, which was approved by the Senate a year and a half ago has been successfully implemented at three campuses and will be implemented Systemwide in 2015. In addition, the President has decided to extend the Open Access policy to all employees of the University, including non-Senate members. A policy has been drafted with the assurance that it will not affect Senate policy.

Chair Wudka made several announcements, including the following:

- UCOP is considering the replacement of the HealthNet Blue and Gold healthcare plan with UC Care potentially in 2016 or 2017, but the details of this proposal are not yet known. The Senate has objected to the intent of the proposal.
- President Napolitano announced an initiative to investigate and streamline transfer curricula requirements Systemwide in order to make the requirements less confusing to students.
- R’courses, which is the program that allows for courses to be offered and led by undergraduate students under the guidance of a faculty mentor, has been implemented and students have begun to enroll in the courses.
- WASC, UCR’s accrediting body, will be at UCR soon and faculty will be involved in various reports and discussions associated with that review, ensuring that UCR maintains independence from standardized reporting and review processes that WASC tends to favor.

Visit the Student Affairs Office in the College of Engineering or student.engr.ucr.edu for a sample program.

JUSTIFICATION:
We wish to add MSE 197 to the list of technical electives for a maximum of four units. The addition of this course is to improve the student learning experience by exposing them to hands on research in a setting that is not a standard course lab. It will enable them to (i) understand hypothesis-driven research, (ii) write research reports, (iii) present their findings in a peer-reviewed atmosphere. Upper division standing students may enroll in research units to receive exposure to hands on research conducted by MSE faculty. The MSE student to faculty ratio is nearly 2:1 so finding an advisor whom a student can do research with should not be an issue.

This course has already been approved through CRAMS.

Proposed Changes to Asian Studies Major

PRESENT:

Major Requirements
The requirements for the B.A. degree in Asian Studies are as follows:

East Asian Studies Option
Students can focus on any aspect of Asia and/or Asian America, and are strongly encouraged to select a disciplinary focus in Anthropology, Art History, History, Comparative Literature and Foreign Languages, Ethnic Studies, Music and Culture, Media and Cultural Studies, or Religious Studies. Students may choose to focus on the historical interactions and cultural similarities and differences among East, Northeast, South, Southeast, West, and Central Asia peoples, including those constituting transnational and/or diaspora communities throughout the world. Students interested in Asian diaspora communities are also encouraged to consider a secondary disciplinary focus in Ethnic Studies, leading to a minor in Asian American Studies.

Students planning graduate work in Asian Studies are encouraged to write a senior thesis during the first or second quarter of their senior year. (This is a substantial paper based on original research; ideally, primary documents are consulted in the course of conducting the research.)

1. Lower-division requirements (12 units plus language requirement)

a) Two years of basic language instruction in any Asian language (This requirement may be filled by language courses currently offered at UCR or though approved summer language programs. In some cases, the second year requirement may be waived with the approval of the Asian Studies Committee in Charge)

PROPOSED:

The “East Asian Studies Option” should have been deleted from the catalog in a previous iteration. There are no longer different options within the Asian Studies degree.

The senior thesis will be required of all students and we also require that students enroll in AST 195 which is the capstone senior thesis course. This course will allow faculty to assess learning outcomes of graduating Asian Studies majors in compliance with WASC requirements. To complete the course successfully (and in order to graduate) students must demonstrate basic critical skills in reading and writing about historical and ethnographic texts regarding at least one Asian nation or language/ethnic group in the context of Asia as a broad geo-cultural area. The course requirement will also encourage more direct contact between students and faculty from different disciplines specializing in Asia. This program change should have no significant impact on Asian Studies resources.

JUSTIFICATION:
The underlined upper-division political science courses have been approved by the Committee on Courses and based on course content, need to be placed into the area of focus: International Relations and Foreign Policy or Comparative Politics.

In the section of the major requiring any four courses from either Anthropology, Economics, History, or Sociology, the underlined courses have consistently been allowed as substitutions for students in this major. In order to alleviate manually substituting these courses when they are taken, the department would like these to be added as course options so that they will automatically apply in this area when a student enrolls into the course.

JUSTIFICATION:

POSC 010W has been approved as a Writing Across the Curriculum course which needs to be added as a course option for the lower division American Government requirement for the Political Science Public Service Major.

The underlined upper-division political science courses have been approved by the Committee on Courses and based on course content, need to be placed into the area of focus as course options. The four areas are U.S. Government and Politics, Comparative Government and Politics, International Relations and Foreign Policy, and Political Theory.

In the International Relations and Foreign Policy area, POSC 133 is being deleted from this section. Due to course content, it is more appropriate for it to be listed in the Comparative Government and Politics Group.

3. Public Policy Seminar/Colloquia
During the junior and senior years, students must enroll in PBPL 191 (Seminar in Public Policy), which includes attendance at public lectures to the campus community given by outside speakers — typically policy makers, administrators and researchers — on timely and important policy issues facing the Inland Empire, the state, the nation, and the world.

4. Domestic or International Policy Practicum
In the third or fourth year of the program (or during the summer between the third and fourth years), students must undertake a policy practicum (PBPL 198-I), which consists of an internship (paid or voluntary) on a policy issue or problem with a local, state or federal government agency, nonprofit or for-profit organization, a trade association, a labor/trade union, or a public-affairs firm. The Public Policy Program Committee helps students locate internship opportunities. The summer internship provides students with an opportunity to gain real-world experience and apply the analytical skills learned in the classroom. Students enrolled in the UC Riverside Washington Academic Program, the UC Center at Sacramento program or the Education Abroad Program can apply that experience toward the policy practicum requirement, and do not need to undertake a separate internship.

5. Senior Thesis (for Honors candidates only)

Students who have an outstanding academic record in their course work during the first three years of the program can become candidates for Honors in Public Policy during the spring quarter of their junior year. All honors candidates must enroll in a two-quarter senior thesis seminar (PBPL 195H) that will culminate in a written thesis covering a real policy problem of the student’s choice. The thesis project could grow out of the practicum experience.

JUSTIFICATION:

1. Numeric change reflects substitution of upper division for lower division training in statistics. This change is necessary to ensure that Public Policy majors have sufficient experience in producing as well as consuming the kind of cost-benefit analysis that is fundamental to policy analysis. These skills will be essential to their success in our new required course: PBPL 101.

1b. The new course focuses on “politics and policy” and applied research, which is more relevant for our Public Policy students than the emphasis on “U.S. political institutions” and associated models that constitute the current Political Science options.

1d. The new course focuses on “ethics in public policy” as opposed to ethics as a philosophical concern. This emphasis is more relevant for our Public Policy majors, who are required to complete an internship and will need exposure to relevant applications of ethics in professional settings.

1e. This broader range of courses will increase options for Public Policy majors to gain an exposure to the history and nature of policy issues in the United States necessary to be successful in the major’s upper division courses.

2. Numeric changes accommodate the upper division statistics course (previously a lower division requirement) and a new writing-intensive policy analysis course (PBPL 101).

2a. Upper division statistics requirement replaces lower division statistics requirement.

2b. Previously, students received no training in doing policy analysis, which is a requirement for many of their internships and essential to policy practitioners. PBPL 101 will provide this necessary training.
2c. Identical to (2) in the current requirements; 2c shifts the substantive track requirements “down” so that the tracks are included in this single requirement as opposed to appearing as separate, numbered requirements.

Throughout the text of the major, referrals to WMST courses have been changed to GSST to reflect changes to the department’s name and course subject codes.

Note: In filling the dual requirements of the selected major, students may not count more than two courses toward both parts of their total requirements (Sociology requirements and Administrative Studies requirements).

JUSTIFICATION:

1. We seek to reduce the number of our undergraduate specializations from 7 to 5 in light of actual and impending losses in our ladder-ranked faculty which constrain our ability to offer and develop new courses within the urban and the organizations specializations. The proposed specializations better reflect the expertise and current teaching interests of our current faculty given recent and impending faculty turnover.

2. We seek to expand the course options for students to fulfill their specialization requirements in order to facilitate students' timely completion of their degree requirements. These changes are also intended to update the specialization requirements so that they better reflect changes within the broader discipline of sociology as well as current course offerings in each of these subfields. The proposed changes also better reflect the expertise and teaching interests of current faculty (particularly faculty hired in the past 15 years), which should facilitate course scheduling. The current specialization requirements are outdated, hindering faculty’s ability to teach courses that reflect changes in the discipline and the current faculty’s teach interests and expertise.

3. We are proposing to change the grade requirements for our lower-division courses (Soc 1, Soc 4, Soc 5, and two additional lower-division courses) from a C to a C- in order to be consistent with systemwide regulations regarding grade requirements for courses which are currently being enforced by the Committee on Courses at UC-Riverside. As a result of this requirement, Sociology students are able to enroll in Soc 3 if they have taken Soc 1 with a C- or better, they can enroll in Soc 4 if they have taken Soc 1 with a C- or better, and they can enroll in Soc 5 if they have taken Soc 4 with a C- or better. Students are also able to enroll in various upper-division Sociology courses if they received a C- or better in Soc 1, 3, 4, and/or 5. In light of this, we want the grade requirements for the lower-division courses to be consistent with the C- and above standard so that students who do receive a C- in their lower division courses are not excluded from the major (or have to repeat these lower-division courses). Per email conversations between past CEP Chair Ward Beyermann and the Sociology department, lowering the C requirement to a C- would solve the curriculum problem which could exclude students who pass lower division courses by receiving a C- but do not qualify for the major with the existing C grade requirements. Moreover, following CEP Ward Beyerman's advice given to the Department in 2013, we plan to encourage Sociology instructors who teach Sociology to raise the academic standards so that C- are comparable to what we used to consider C grades.

Note: For sections d) and e) combined, not more than two courses may be taken from the same department. In filling the dual requirements of the major, students may not count more than two courses toward both parts of their total requirements (Sociology requirements and Law and Society requirements).

JUSTIFICATION:

1. We seek to reduce the number of our undergraduate specializations from 7 to 5 in light of actual and impending losses in our ladder-ranked faculty which constrain our ability to offer and develop new courses within the urban and the organizations specializations. The proposed specializations better reflect the expertise and current teaching interests of our current faculty given recent and impending faculty turnover.

2. We seek to expand the course options for students to fulfill their specialization requirements in order to facilitate students' timely completion of their degree requirements. These changes are also intended to update the specialization requirements so that they better reflect changes within the broader discipline of sociology as well as current course offerings in each of these subfields. The proposed changes also better reflect the expertise and teaching interests of current faculty (particularly faculty hired in the past 15 years), which should facilitate course scheduling. The current specialization requirements are outdated, hindering faculty’s ability to teach courses that reflect changes in the discipline and the current faculty’s teach interests and expertise.

3. We are proposing to change the grade requirements for our lower-division courses (Soc 1, Soc 4, Soc 5, and two additional lower-division courses) from a C to a C- in order to be consistent with systemwide regulations regarding grade requirements for courses which are currently being enforced by the Committee on Courses at UC-Riverside. As a result of this requirement, Sociology students are able to enroll in Soc 3 if they have taken Soc 1 with a C- or better, they can enroll in Soc 4 if they have taken Soc 1 with a C- or better, and they can enroll in Soc 5 if they have taken Soc 4 with a C- or better. Students are also able to enroll in various upper-division Sociology courses if they received a C- or better in Soc 1, 3, 4, and/or 5. In light of this, we want the grade requirements for the lower-division courses to be consistent with the C- and above standard so that students who do receive a C- in their lower division courses are not excluded from the major (or have to repeat these lower-division courses). Per email conversations between past CEP Chair Ward Beyermann and the Sociology department, lowering the C requirement to a C- would solve the curriculum problem which could exclude students who pass lower division courses by receiving a C- but do not qualify for the major with the existing C grade requirements. Moreover, following CEP Ward Beyerman's advice given to the Department in 2013, we plan to encourage Sociology instructors who teach Sociology to raise the academic standards so that C- are comparable to what we used to consider C grades.

Justification:
Change of name of B.A. degree from Theatre to Theatre, Film, and Digital Production: On June 6, 2014 the EVC and Provost granted approval for the Department of Theatre Department to change its name to the Department of Theatre, Film, and Digital Production. The change in the name of the degree offered reflects the evolution of the department from one primarily focused on the stage to one that is training students and creating work in other modes of dramatic performance including Film, Television and more recent new media.

Subject abbreviation change from THEA to TFDP: To reflect the new name of our department and the expanded scope of our program, we wish to change the subject abbreviation to TFDP. The subject code abbreviation for all of our courses has been changed from THEA to TFDP in CRAMS.

Courses THEA 141, THEA 143, THEA 165A, THEA 165B have been approved for deletion as of 15F, and will not be renumbered to TFDP.

Proposed Changes to Theatre Minor

PRESENT:

Minor
The minor in Theatre follows the structure of the major requirements by exposing students to each of the areas that are essential to the creation of theatre, with the opportunity to take an additional course for depth or more exposure. The inclusion of THEA 170 (Advanced Dramatic Production) gives the students the opportunity to put course work into the proper context and provides them with a practical understanding of the workings and problems of production. The minor in Theatre provides students with a basic understanding in major areas of study including theatre literature, performance, and design. It also introduces the nonmajor to the discipline, providing breadth for those students majoring in unrelated disciplines.

Requirements for the minor (20 units)

1. THEA 100, THEA 101, THEA 109
2. Four (4) units of THEA 170 (This 2-unit course must be taken twice, in two different areas, 2 units of which must be in residence.)
3. One 4-unit upper-division course selected from the department’s Literature, History, Criticism area or the Performance, Direction, Playwriting, Screenwriting, Design, and Theatre Technology area.

See Minors under the College of Humanities, Arts, and Social Sciences in the Colleges and Programs section of this catalog for additional information on minors.

Proposed Changes to Environmental Sciences Major

PRESENT:

Social Science Option
Developed for students whose interests are oriented toward the social context of the environmental sciences, this option is appropriate preparation for careers dealing with environmental regulation, land use planning, environmental impact analysis and administration of environmental protection programs. The Social Science option is also suitable for those intending to continue their education in such areas as natural resource economics, urban planning, and environmental law. Both the B.A. and B.S. degrees are available to students in the Social Science option.

PROPOSED:

Social Science Option
The Social Science Option is not currently accepting new students. Students interested in social science aspects of environmental sciences are encouraged to contact the Vice-Chair of the Department of Environmental Sciences or the CNAS Undergraduate Academic Advising Center for alternative programs of study.
Justification:

The Social Science Option was developed by ENSC faculty who specialize in Environmental and Natural Resource Economics, thus the curriculum for this option is weighted heavily toward the economic study of the environment (e.g., ENSC006, ENSC143A, ENSC143B and ENSC143C). In September 2014, three key ENSC faculty involved with teaching required courses for this option (Drs. Baerenklau, Dinar and Schwabe) transferred to the School of Public Policy at UC Riverside and were given Cooperating Faculty Member status in ENSC. In addition, the sole remaining environmental economist in the ENSC Department, Dr. Keith Knapp, has indicated he will retire in the near future. Drs. Baerenklau, Dinar and Schwabe have indicated that they can continue to teach four of the required courses for the Social Science Option (ENSC006, ENSC143A, ENSC143B and ENSC143C) for a couple of years or until such time that all of their teaching obligations must be devoted to the School of Public Policy.

The ENSC Faculty feel that the current Department lacks the disciplinary background to continue the Social Science Option as it is presently structured. The Department seeks to replace the current Social Science Option with a new option, with the working title of “Environmental Sustainability”. As a first step in the transition towards a new option, better aligned with the disciplinary makeup of ENSC, we are requesting that the Social Science Option be eliminated for new students beginning in AY 2015-16. Because of catalog rights, the option will continue to be available to current ENSC majors, so we are requesting that new text be inserted into the catalog indicating that new students may not choose the Social Science Option. The Department anticipates having a draft proposal for the Environmental Sustainability Option ready for review by the beginning of AY 2015-16.

In support of UC Riverside's commitment to excellence in teaching and learning, Undergraduate Education has been actively inviting programs and departments to develop a capstone course. ENTM 180, the newly approved capstone course will provide undergraduate students majoring in Entomology with the experience of synthesizing and integrating knowledge and skills gained throughout the Entomology undergraduate program. The course will consist of two components: 1) Attendance of the Seminar in Entomology series (Monday 4-5, Genomics Auditorium) that are comprised of invited lectures presented by visiting scientists, staff and advanced graduate students on research topics in entomology and allied fields. 2) A discussion section that will be coordinated with each week’s seminar topic. The course will include writing and discussion assignments such as: a) written abstracts of a set number of seminars, b) discussion of one selected paper per week that is tied in with the seminar presentation, and c) in depth review of research area of one of the topics covered in the seminars. During the course, the students will develop skills in scientific literacy and writing skills as well as the ability to critically evaluate concepts in entomology. In efforts to address one of Entomology Learning Outcomes: "To demonstrate scientific literacy and writing skills as well as the ability to critically evaluate concepts in entomology". Teaching Credential and B.A. in Geoscience Education

Teachers in the public schools in California must have a credential approved by the State Commission on Teacher Credentialing. The credential requires an undergraduate major, baccalaureate degree, and completion of a graduate credential program such as that offered by the Graduate School of Education at UCR.

Before admission and student teaching in a graduate credential program, the candidate must pass the California Basic Education Skills Test (CBEST) and demonstrate subject-matter proficiency by passing an examination. All candidates for a multiple subject credential to teach in the elementary grades must pass the Multiple Subjects, California Subject Exam for Teachers (CSET). Students are urged to start early, preferably as freshmen, selecting courses most helpful for this career. Details and counseling on the Prepare to Teach Program, a program for the multiple subject credential, are available in the Office of Interdisciplinary Programs, 2417 Humanities and Social Sciences.

Teaching Credential

(No Change)
(951) 827-2743. Details and counseling on other programs are available in the Department of Earth Sciences or the Graduate School of Education.

UCR does not yet have a state-approved subject matter undergraduate program for earth science majors who wish to teach at the secondary level. The Teaching Credential in Science, geoscience authorization, is required for teachers who want to teach earth science/ geoscience in middle school and high school. Students who plan to get this credential must take the CSET exams in Geosciences and should make certain their academic program includes preparatory course work. The Earth Sciences

Earth Science students interested in a secondary school science teaching career, who intend to obtain a Teaching Credential in Science, geoscience authorization, are encouraged to pursue the B.A. degree in Geoscience Education. This degree will best prepare such students for the state credentialing examinations, but is not intended for those students who wish to become professional geologists. Students who want to have the option to become either a professional geoscientist or to teach earth science in secondary schools should pursue both the B.S. in General Geology as well as the teaching credential from the Graduate School of Education.

Students in CNAS who intend to pursue a Teaching Credential in Science, with authorization in another science, should consider pursuing a Minor in Earth Sciences.

Geoscience Education Major
Students who choose the B.A. degree in Geoscience Education intend to teach earth science and general science at the secondary school level. Students receive Freshman- and Sophomore-level training in General Geology, training in introductory Biology, and Freshman level training in Chemistry, Calculus, and Physics. They also take courses in Education that are required for state examinations and teacher credentialing in California. The B.A. in Geoscience Education degree is designed for prospective secondary science teachers; it will not lead to a career as a professional geologist.
Students who want to have the option to become either a professional geoscientist or to teach earth science in secondary school should pursue both the B.S. in General Geology as well as the teaching credential from the Graduate School of Education.

Change of Major and Continuation Criteria

Students wishing to change into or continue in the Geology major must be in good academic standing and show potential to graduate without exceeding 216 units.

Freshmen (2nd and 3rd quarter) must demonstrate progress in basic sciences and aptitude for geology by satisfying the following three criteria by Spring Quarter or Summer Session:
- MATH 009B eligible (e.g. completion of MATH 9A or MATH 8B with grades of C- or better)

Justification: Majors

The Geoscience Education Major was established in 2008 with the hope of attracting a significant number of additional majors into Earth Sciences. This has not proven to be the case: to date only a single student has graduated from that program, and thus our experience shows that the major is not of sufficient attraction to merit continuation. We have not abandoned our mission in this area, and we are presently in the initial stages of discussion with the Education Department centered on their proposal of a Minor in Science Education. Our conviction that in the current employment environment students are better served graduating with the General Geology degree and then moving onto teacher training at the graduate level. Such a course of study provides the students with a wider variety of options than teaching alone, and a better fundamental grounding in geosciences. A number of our graduates have taken this route: the experiment of a geoscience education degree suggests that that students prefer to receive a full training in... geology, prior to obtaining training in education. Accordingly, the Department has voted to remove the Geoscience Education Major after reviewing the results of our 5 year experiment.

Justification: Change of Major and Continuation Criteria

A review of the MATH 09C and MATH 046 syllabi conducted by the department following a recent departmental retreat opined that the subject matter of MATH 09C (improper integrals, infinite series, Taylor’s series, and Taylor’s theorem) is less appropriate to students in the Geology degree than the topic covered in MATH 046 (differential equations). Therefore, MATH 046 is a viable and in many cases preferable requirement option. As students taking the PHYS 040 series are required to take MATH 09C, we do not wish to deter students from taking MATH 09C as a class option that fulfills Geology requirements, but our complementary revision of the curriculum allowing students to take the PHYS 002 series as an alternative to the PHYS 040 will provide a route by which students can complete their degrees having taken both MATH 046, and completed the Physics requirement. We are grateful to the Math Department for their active engagement as we deliberated on this issue.

Justification: Transfer selection Criteria

- The catalog descriptions indicate that PHYS 002, “General Physics,” is for biological sciences students and PHYS 040, also “General Physics,” is designed for engineering and physical sciences students. The geology major includes geophysical and geobiological options. Our core physics requirements should match that range.

- The two courses have comparable rigor. Credit is awarded for only one of PHYS 002 and PHYS 040. With grades of B in either series, students meet prerequisites for courses in the PHYS 041 course, intended for physics majors. The calculus prerequisites do differ. The calculus prerequisites to complete the PHYS 002 A-C series are MATH 009A and B; to complete PHYS 040A-C series MATH 009A, B and C are required. Geology majors will all complete three quarters of first-year.

- Geology majors will all complete three quarters of first-year calculus, regardless of their physics series.

- The geology major recruits students from several sources, including the biological sciences and engineering. Our core physics requirements should accommodate transfer from these majors. We must already accept PHYS 002 for students who change major after completing a life sciences core curriculum. The same option should be available to all geology majors. Current practice causes needless tensions.

- We seek greater scheduling flexibility. The current physics component of our core curriculum has caused severe scheduling difficulties when the Physics and Astronomy department cancels a section of PHYS 040 in which our students have registered. By accepting PHYS 002 or PHYS 040, we open more scheduling options to our students without placing additional stress on the ability of the Department of Physics and Astronomy to deliver its part of the CNAS curriculum. PHYS 002 brings two other scheduling advantages: the separable lab course and the possibility of completing MATH 009C and PHYS 002C concurrently.

- Most geology majors complete the General Geology track, even though their goals may favor geobiology or geophysics. We must also reckon with geology majors who change tracks before graduation. For these reasons we propose to accept PHYS 002 or PHYS 040 in the core curriculum of all options in the geology major, rather than differentiate the physics requirement by option.

Justification: General Geology, Geobiology, Geophysics, and Global Climate Change Options

Although Mineralogy remains a key discipline within Geology, technological advances have diminished the role of some of the skills current taught as part of GEO 123 (Analytical Mineralogy). Accordingly, we now feel that a revised GEO 122 better meets the requirements of the core curriculum, following revision to introduce some essential elements of GEO 123 as presently taught. The proposed title change of GEO 122 (currently listed as "Introduction to Mineralogy") to "Mineralogy" better reflects this course as the broad and new "one-stop" for geology majors to learn core mineralogy skills (without preventing a course such as a revised GEO 123 "Advanced Mineralogy" from being proposed in the future). Most of the proposed content of GEO 122 is similar to presently taught though emphases will be shifted and some topics will be trimmed to accommodate the greater breadth of material that must now be covered. Changes to the course curriculum will reflect the need to integrate essential content from GEOL 123 (particularly practical optical mineralogy skills), as well as a refined emphasis on practical skills and knowledge (mineral identification, associations, environments, and anthropogenic uses).

Justification: Changing the Maximum Number of Credit Units for GEO 102
This class, commonly referred to as “Summer Field” serves as a capstone experience for those Geology majors in the General Geology option, the Geobiology option, and the Geophysics option. Presently students take the class at one of a variety of external field camps run by other universities where the students undertake field mapping of sedimentary, igneous, and metamorphic rocks. At present a maximum credit of 14 units may be awarded for the class, but the units provided by the camps generally do not exceed 9 units. Accordingly, the undergraduate advisor routinely has to write letters “waiving, without reservation, the 5 unit short fall.” By reducing the maximum number of units to 9 this persistent and time consuming requirement will be avoided.

The decision to rate our own GEO 102 course at 14-units is decades old and necessarily inexact. Students complete hundreds of hours of field work, rated like a lab at 3 hours per unit, plus the seminar-style evening sessions in which they are taught to draft professional maps and reports, which can be variously rated as 1 or 3 hours per unit depending whether the style on any given evening better resembles a lecture, discussion or lab. An alternative calculation considers that some of the field work is an outdoor lecture, with students doing follow-up; this leads to higher unit totals and ignores the presence of instructors at all hours of the course. For a "live-in" field course there may be no easy distinction between a discussion section and "group office hours" or between a lecture and a "working picnic lunch." Colleges inevitably differ in their unit calculation for these courses. Our approximate unit calculations were accepted again by the CNAS executive committee ~3 years ago when Financial Aid experts requested that we revise the course description to give students the option to spread the unit credit over more than one quarter

7. Recommended Courses LING 020 or LING 021, EDUC 116, EDUC 174, EDUC 177A
Justification:
Physics is changing their PHYS002ABC series. The PHYS002ABC series will now be a virtually calculus-free version of an Introduction to Physics. However, the Physics Department also has a calculus-based Introduction to Physics, namely the PHYS040ABC series.

Our catalog description for many majors states that PHYS002ABC or PHYS040ABC may be taken. The Mathematics faculty feel it would be inappropriate for a Math Department to allow a calculus-free option of Introduction to Physics for their own majors. Therefore, we would propose to remove the PHYS002ABC series option throughout our requirements and replace it with the PHYS040ABC series.

Proposed Changes to Education Minor

PRESENT:

The Education Minor offers to any undergraduate student an introduction to issues and practices of education and research in public schools. Students from any major are invited to pursue a minor in education.

Students in the Education Minor may select from a variety of courses that may focus on a particular interest or may sample across aspects of the curriculum. Specific areas of interest that are reflected in the course offerings include: Special education, literacy and language, curriculum and teaching strategies, and educational research.

The Education Minor does not lead to a teaching credential; however, some of the courses will satisfy UCR credential program requirements. Students who are interested in pursuing a teaching credential should contact GSOE student services at (951) 827-5225.

Admission Students apply to the Education Minor by submitting a UC Riverside “Request to Declare/Drop a Minor” form.

Once approved by the Education Minor Committee, the application goes to the student’s college for approval. Both approvals are required for admission.

The minimum qualifications are:

1. Present good academic standing with a minimum GPA of 2.0.

2. Petitions must be filed at least two quarters before graduation, depending on major.

Program Requirements The Education Minor consists of the satisfactory completion of 24 units in courses identified for the Education Minor Program. At least 16 units must be completed in upper division courses.

All courses that candidates may want to use to satisfy the Teacher Credential program requirements must be completed with a minimum grade of “C”. Minor in Education candidates must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0.

Course Work The following courses will comprise the menu of electives for the Education Minor:

EDUC 001, EDUC 002, EDUC 003, EDUC 004, EDUC 020, EDUC 020S, EDUC 030, EDUC 040, EDUC 040S, EDUC 044, EDUC 050, EDUC 050S, EDUC 100A, EDUC 100B, EDUC 109, EDUC 109S, EDUC 110, EDUC 110S, EDUC 112, EDUC 112S, EDUC 114, EDUC 116, EDUC 116S, EDUC 118, EDUC 120, EDUC 129, EDUC 130, EDUC 131, EDUC 139, EDUC 146/ETST 146, EDUC 172, EDUC 172S, EDUC 173, EDUC 174, EDUC 174S.

Additional courses may be added to this list by proposals of academic units, or by petitions of students to take a suitable alternative course. Student petitions require the approval of the program advisor in the Education Minor. Students may not petition to take more than 8 units of courses outside of the identified courses for the Education Minor.

Course Work The following courses will comprise the menu of electives for the Education Minor:

EDUC 001, EDUC 002, EDUC 003, EDUC 004, EDUC 020, EDUC 020S, EDUC 030, EDUC 040, EDUC 040S, EDUC 044, EDUC 050, EDUC 050S, EDUC 100A, EDUC 100B, EDUC 109, EDUC 109S, EDUC 110, EDUC 110S, EDUC 112, EDUC 112S, EDUC 114, EDUC 116, EDUC 116S, EDUC 118, EDUC 120, EDUC 129, EDUC 130, EDUC 131, EDUC 133, EDUC 139, EDUC 146/ETST 146, EDUC 172, EDUC 172S, EDUC 173, EDUC 174, EDUC 174S, EDUC 175, EDUC 175S, EDUC 176, EDUC 177A, EDUC 177B.
JUSTIFICATION:

The Executive Committee approved the following courses on May 27\textsuperscript{th}, 2014 for the Minor in Education:

\begin{itemize}
  \item EDUC 001, EDUC 002, EDUC 003, EDUC 004, EDUC 020, EDUC 020S, EDUC 030, EDUC 040, EDUC 040S, EDUC 044, EDUC 050, EDUC 050S, EDUC 100A, EDUC 100B, EDUC 109, EDUC 109S, EDUC 110, EDUC 110S, EDUC 112, EDUC 112S, EDUC 114, EDUC 116, EDUC 116S, EDUC 118, EDUC 120, EDUC 129, EDUC 130, EDUC 131, EDUC 139, EDUC 146/ETST 146, EDUC 172, EDUC 172S, EDUC 173, EDUC 174, EDUC 174S.
\end{itemize}

However, during the transition of having the above course list approved, the following courses were accidentally omitted from the above approved list: EDUC 133, EDUC 175, EDUC 175S, EDUC 176, EDUC 177A, EDUC 177B. Once these courses are approved and added for the Minor in Education course list, all undergraduate education courses may be used toward the Minor in Education.

Even though EDUC 177A and EDUC 177B have been renumbered into EDUC 175 and EDUC 176 respectfully, the Student Information System (SIS+), used for university student records, does not recognize renumbered courses for the Minor in Education. The Minor in Education advisor has to make individual course substitute adjustments into each student record. The Minor in Education advisor recommends keeping EDUC 177A and EDUC 177B listed as part of the Minor in Education for the next five years, until most of our students who may had taken EDUC 177A and EDUC 177B before 14W may have most likely left the campus.

Re: Dean’s Conference Room at UCR School of Medicine

Executive Council reviewed the proposal connected with naming the Dean’s Conference Room at the UCR School of Medicine and the creation of a scholarship fund through an anonymous donation. A majority of Council members voted to support the proposal (18 in favor, 2 against, no abstentions).

However, Council was disturbed by the lack of consultation in the naming of the facility. The administration's policy requires (per a recommendation in 2004 from the Committee on Academic Personnel) that there be College/Unit consultation, with review by the faculty group with whom the named facility is to be associated. In addition, the policy also specifies that the Chair of the Division should be included in a naming committee convened to review proposals of this type. In this case, it appears that the committee has not yet been convened and Council has the expectation that this will be processed with full adherence to existing policy.

In case of anonymous donations Council would also appreciate being reassured that the administration has verified that the donor and the conditions for the donation are consistent with the campus expectations of moral standing and ethics.

   The College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences, in accordance with UCR Endowed Chair Policy and Procedures, will establish the Maimonides Endowed Chair in Jewish Studies with the support of various donors. Over the past few years, UC Riverside has experienced incidents of anti-Semitism. Much of this activity was the result of lack of knowledge and basic intolerance. UCR is the only UC campus that does not have an endowed chair in Jewish Studies, who can help to foster a better level of understanding of Judaism and the history of the Jewish people. The Maimonides Chair in Jewish Studies at UCR will:

   • Anchor a cross-campus, multi-disciplinary and pluralistic curriculum of Jewish Studies
   • Bring a stronger focus and energy to Judaism on campus, enabling Jewish students to find renewed pride in their heritage and for others to better understand the religion
   • Help support existing programs such as Hillel, to create a friendly non-threatening space for students to discuss and practice Judaism
   • Benefit the surrounding Jewish communities by sharing leadership, counsel and academic knowledge
   • Enable the university to attract or retain a world-class Jewish Studies scholar who will enhance the reputation of the campus and enrich the community
The resources provided to the chair holder will be used to support research, facilitate undergraduate and graduate instruction and support outreach to the community.

Management of the Maimonides Endowed Chair in Jewish Studies will be under the direction of the dean of the College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences.

B. Resources: Describe the resources that will be necessary to support the proposed Chair (e.g., FTE and other funding.) Please refer to the College/Unit Academic Plan as appropriate.

The Maimonides Endowed Chair in Jewish Studies Fund

I. INTRODUCTION

Nearly three dozen individuals, foundations and organizations contributed a total of $504,000 to endow the Maimonides Endowed Chair in Jewish Studies, which will fund research and other activities aimed at fostering better understanding of Judaism and the history and heritage of Jewish people. The Maimonides Endowed Chair in Jewish Studies is named for Moses Maimonides, a Spanish Sephardic Jew who was a rabbi, scholar, philosopher, astronomer and physician in medieval Spain and Egypt. Born in Córdoba, Spain, in 1135, he is regarded as one of the foremost philosophers in Jewish history.

II. PURPOSE AND USE OF ENDOWMENT

A. General Purpose:

Establishment of the Maimonides Endowed Chair in Jewish Studies will anchor a cross-campus, multi-disciplinary and pluralistic curriculum of Jewish Studies; bring a stronger focus and energy to Judaism on campus, enabling Jewish students to find renewed pride in their heritage and for others to better understand the religion; help support existing programs such as Hillel, to create a friendly non-threatening space for students to discuss and practice Judaism; benefit the surrounding Jewish communities by sharing leadership, counsel and academic knowledge; enable the university to attract or retain a world-class Jewish Studies scholar who will enhance the reputation of the campus and enrich the community.

B. Payout from the chair endowment will be transferred to The Regents, to be made available to the chair holder, in support of teaching, research, and service activities in accordance with University policy.

C. The establishment and administration of the Endowment will comply with current policies of the UC Regents and the UC Riverside Foundation. If, in the judgment of the Chancellor, the designated use of endowment payout is impracticable or impossible, then the Chancellor may use endowment payout for such other purposes at the University of California, Riverside as s/he determines to be consistent with Donors’ interests and intentions.
III. ADMINISTRATION OF FUND

A. The chair endowment will be administered in accordance with the UCR Policies and Procedures on Endowed Chairs: Establishment, Administration, and Appointment of Faculty. Subject to approval through the appropriate policy and procedure of the University of California, Riverside, and the Regents of the University of California, the Chair will be named the Maimonides Endowed Chair in Jewish Studies.

B. The Fund’s expendable distribution will be determined periodically under the terms of the Endowment Expenditure Policy as established by the UC Riverside Foundation.

C. The total return earned by the endowment in excess of the amount approved annually for payout shall be retained in the Fund principal to protect the Fund from the effects of inflation and to allow for growth. Academic Justification for the
Ted and Jo Dutton Endowed Presidential Chair for Education Policy and Politics

The Ted and Jo Dutton Endowed Presidential Chair for Education Policy and Politics will enable the Graduate School of Education (GSOE) to attract a senior faculty member in education policy and politics. Education policy and politics are mission critical disciplines in any school of education. Expertise in this area is important to the realization of the GSOE 2020 plan for pursuing an interdisciplinary research program in cooperation with other UCR professional schools. The linkage with the School of Public Policy's Masters in Public Policy, Education Emphasis is a particularly important point of contact and cooperation requiring policy and politics skills. GSOE also needs to add a faculty member in this area to fill a critical gap in our academic offerings to our graduate and undergraduate students.

Subject: The Ted and Jo Dutton Endowed Presidential Chair for Education Policy and Politics, in the Graduate School of Education

The GSOE Executive Committee was consulted on the above matter of an endowed chair in Education Policy and Politics. On behalf of the faculty of GSOE, the Executive Committee supports the establishment of The Ted and Jo Dutton Endowed Presidential Chair for Education Policy and Politics, in the Graduate School of Education. The Duttons have strong ties to education policies and politics that affect California. They also have an interest in policies directly related to Inland Southern California. Dr. Dutton is an alumnus of GSOE and Mr. Dutton served on the UC Riverside Foundation of Trustees. Their generous gift will allow GSOE to support education policy research focused upon California.

Fund Agreement between
Dr. Jo Dutton and Mr. Ted Dutton
and the UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA to establish

The Ted and Jo Dutton Endowed Presidential Chair for Education Policy and Politics
In the Graduate School of Education

I. INTRODUCTION

In 2000, Pacific Enviro Design, a California general partnership (the “Donor”), gifted real estate (the “Gift”) to The Regents of the University of California, the proceeds from which were to benefit the UCR Graduate School of Education (GSOE). The funds that came from the sale of the Gift were not designated for a specific purpose at GSOE and were, therefore, allocated to a general GSOE gift account. Some of the funds have been expended at the dean’s discretion, as per the gift agreement, and $500,000 remains in the account. Former Interim Dean Mitchell recently initiated discussions with Mr. Ted Dutton, the managing general partner of Pacific Enviro Design. It was agreed that an endowment would be created to support an endowed chair and it would be named after Mr. Ted Dutton and his wife, Dr. Jo Dutton, (an alumna of GSOE). The general partners of Pacific Enviro Design have been informed of the creation and naming of this chair and have supported the decision. Thus, $500,000 of the gift funds will be used to establish the Ted and Jo Dutton Endowed Presidential Chair for Education Policy and Politics Fund. The University of California will establish a matching fund of $500,000 to be named the Ted and Jo Dutton Endowed Presidential Chair for Education Policy and Politics Matching Fund. Collectively, the funds shall be referred to as “Chair Funds”.

The intent of the Chair is to be able to recruit and retain an outstanding scholar in education and policy. The term of the chair holder shall be renewable. The appointment shall be for an initial 3-year period and may be renewed for up to 5-year periods.

The principal of the Chair Funds may be combined with other funds for investment purposes.

Fiduciary responsibility for governance and investment of the Chair Funds is vested in the Chief Investment Officer of the Regents.

C. As is customary with universities and other non-profit organizations across the country, a one-time gift fee is applied to each gift in order to provide essential support to UCR’s advancement program. Biographical Information for
A. Gary Anderson and the A. Gary Anderson Family Foundation

Erik Anderson and his sister, Erin Anderson Lastinger established the A. Gary Anderson Family Foundation in 1992 to honor their late father, A. Gary Anderson. The elder Mr. Anderson served as chairman and CEO of Directors Mortgage Loan Corporation, one of the nation's largest lending firms. In 1993, the foundation pledged $5 million to UCR to name the A. Gary Anderson Graduate School of Management (AGSM). In 2007, the foundation made an additional $3 million pledge to AGSM. Both pledges have been fulfilled. In 2014 the Foundation pledged an additional $2.5 million to UCR to fund three presidential endowed chairs in AGSM and to provide scholarship support for local students enrolling in one of the School of Business Administration’s graduate programs.

A 24-year veteran of the mortgage banking and real estate industries, Gary Anderson purchased Directors Mortgage in 1976 when it had four branch offices and 105 employees. The company grew to more than 90 offices and 1,800 employees and in 1991 was the nation's 15th-largest residential lender with $3.85 billion in loans. Anderson, who was Directors' chairman and chief executive officer, was honored as the Inland Empire's 1992 entrepreneur of the year.

Anderson was chairman of the Children's Fund of San Bernardino County, a charitable organization he founded, and was a founding member of the Inland Empire Economic Council. He was also board chairman and a major shareholder of Allmark Inc., a development and property management firm in Rancho Cucamonga.

He sat on the advisory board of the Federal National Mortgage Assn. and the board of governors of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America and was president of the Inland Empire Mortgage Bankers Assn. in 1973 and of the California Mortgage Bankers Assn. in 1989.

Fiduciary responsibility for governance and investment of the Chair Funds is vested in the UC Riverside Foundation Board of Trustees and the Chief Investment Officer of The Regents.

C. As is customary with universities and other non-profit organizations across the country, a one-time gift fee is applied to each pledge payment (gift) in order to provide essential support to UCR’s advancement program. We understand that the fee is currently 5%. In addition, after the one-time fee has been satisfied, administrative fees will be charged in accordance with UCR policy.

V. STEWARDSHIP
The A. Gary Anderson Family Foundation Endowed Presidential Chair Funds are a testament to the value the Donor places on the long-term sustainability of the A. Gary Anderson Graduate School of Management (AGSM) and faculty achievement. The Donor will receive periodic stewardship reports from the University on the Funds.

The Donor agrees that these Funds and their names may be used in University communications.

II. Academic Information
   A. Academic Justification

   The college of Natural and Agricultural Sciences, in accordance with UCR policy, will establish the Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair to further instruction and applied research on the control of termites, ants, cockroaches, yellow jackets, fleas, and other urban pests. For more than 35 years, the Department of Entomology has been a research leader pioneering solutions for California’s structural pest control industry and throughout the world, and has long term goals in this field of study. This chair will enhance our national visibility in recruiting and retaining faculty and students of distinction, main undergraduate and graduate training in urban entomology, and signify UCR’s continuing commitment to extend knowledge gained from research to the industry and for the public good.

   The Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair will be assigned to the Department of Entomology. For maximum academic flexibility the chair may be filled by a tenure-track appointment, tenured appointment, or a cooperative extension specialist.

The faculty members of the Department of Entomology met on February 27, 2015 to discuss and vote on the establishment of the Endowed Chair in Urban Entomology. There was unanimous approval to move forward and establish this endowed chair. Please move this process forward as rapidly as you deem reasonable.
I. INTRODUCTION

Numerous individuals and organizations have made outright gifts and pledges to the UC Riverside Foundation totaling $500,000 to endow the Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Fund (the “Fund”). The University of California will establish a matching fund of $500,000 to be named the Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Matching Fund. Collectively, the funds shall be referred to as “Chair Funds”.

II. BACKGROUND

Ensuring that the Urban Entomology program can continue to produce research, extension, outreach, and partnership in the field of pest management is of equal importance to the College of Natural and Agricultural Sciences at the University of California, Riverside and to the urban entomology industry.

For 36 years, Distinguished Professor of Entomology Michael K. Rust has led the Urban Entomology program with distinction. As Dr. Rust retires, the university and industry both hope to perpetuate the initiatives that he has fostered, support continued program excellence, and secure the program’s future.

Corky Mizer, founder of Corky’s Pest Control headquartered in San Marcos, has served as the lead donor and key volunteer to help the college solicit gifts from the structural pest control industry and other interested donors to accomplish this fundraising goal.

Since its beginnings in 2011, the Urban Entomology Endowed Chair Fund has received one outright gift and fourteen pledges. Eleven of these pledges are from pest management company operators, two pledges are from large corporations who serve the pest management industry, and one is from an individual.

The donors (‘Founders Circle’ members) who have pledged to support the fund are Corky’s Pest Control, Dewey Pest Control, Lloyd Pest Control, Mega Fume, Inc., Orkin Pest Control, Pesticide Applicators Professional Association (PAPA), Payne Pest Management, Pestgon, Inc., Statewide Fumigation, Western Exterminator Company, Harbor Pest Control, Syngenta Crop Protection, LLC, Univar, Inc., and Mr. James Ogle. The Founders Circle member making an outright gift is Clark Pest Control.
III. ESTABLISHMENT OF FUNDS

A. Subject to approval through the appropriate policies and procedures of the University of California, Riverside, and the Regents of the University of California, and pending receipt of funds as described below, Chair Funds shall be used to establish the Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair ("Chair").

B. The Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Fund, a true endowment to be held by the UC Riverside Foundation, shall be established when this agreement has been reviewed, signed and dated by appropriate university officials and the Donor pledges have been fully funded.

C. The Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Matching Fund, a fund functioning as an endowment to be held by The Regents, shall be established and funded upon formal approval of the Chair by the President of the University. Approval will be contingent upon full funding of the Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Fund by the Donors.

D. In the unlikely event that The Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Fund does not meet the pledged amount, the Chancellor of UCR is authorized to redesignate the purpose of the funds, taking into consideration Donors' expressed wishes as to the designated purpose described in this document. Any University matching funds will be returned and the Chair will not be established.

E. Additions to the UC Riverside Foundation Fund can be made at any time.

IV. PURPOSE AND USE OF CHAIR FUNDS

A. General Purpose
The expendable distributions from the Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Fund shall be transferred to The Regents and used to support faculty salaries and/or graduate fellowships in the chair holder's department. The expendable distributions from the Urban Entomology Endowed Presidential Chair Matching Fund shall be used to provide the appointed chair holder a scholarly allowance to support research and teaching. Distributions shall be made under the direction of the Dean of the College of Natural and Agricultural Sciences in accordance with established UCR policies and procedures.

The establishment of the Chair Funds will comply with current policies of the UC Regents and the UC Riverside Foundation. If, in the judgment of the Chancellor, the designated use of the Chair Funds payout is impractical or impossible, then the Chancellor may, in consultation with the Donor, when possible, use the Chair Funds payouts for such other purposes at the University of California, Riverside as the Chancellor determines to be consistent with Donors' interests and intentions.
V. ADMINISTRATION OF FUNDS

A. The Chair Funds will be administered in accordance with the UCR Policies and Procedures on Endowed Professorships: Establishment, Administration, and Appointment of Faculty.

B. The Chair Funds’ expendable distributions will be determined periodically under the terms of the Endowment Expenditure Policy as established by the UC Riverside Foundation and The Regents of the University of California.

Total return earned by the Chair Funds in excess of the amount approved for distribution shall be retained in the Chair Funds’ principal to protect the Chair Funds from the effects of inflation and to allow for growth. Any unexpended distributions from the previous year may be combined with that of the current year for spending purposes or added to the Chair Funds’ principal.

The principal of the Chair Funds may be combined with other Funds for investment purposes.

Fiduciary responsibility for governance and investment of the Chair Funds is vested in the UC Riverside Foundation Board of Trustees and the Chief Investment Officer of The Regents.

C. As is customary with universities and other non-profit organizations across the country, a one-time gift fee is applied to each gift/pledge payment in order to provide essential support to UCR’s advancement program. The fee is currently 5%. In addition, after the one-time fee has been satisfied, administrative fees will be charged in accordance with UCR policy.

Re: Review of The Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering

During its April 27 meeting Executive Council reviewed the proposal to establish the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering. Council approved the proposal.

The only concerns, common to all such proposals, are related to the policy itself. These are, first, that the hiring of graduate students is restricted to the department of the chair-holder, and therefore excludes those in interdisciplinary programs; and, second, that the chair-holder does not have sufficient flexibility in deciding the manner in which he scholarly allowance is to be used. We look forward to discussing these issues in the near future.

AMENDMENT to INITIAL REQUEST FOR APPROVAL TO NAME/ESTABLISH AN ENDOWED CHAIR for the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering (Executed on December 3, 2014): [Attachment B]: Full background story of the donor: Bourns Foundation

BACKGROUND
More than sixty years ago, Marlan and Rosemary Bourns set up shop in their tiny 384 square-foot garage in Altadena, California. Their idea to provide a method of accurately determining an aircraft’s pitch attitude solved a crucial problem for pilots. The invention of the first miniature linear motion and vane position potentiometers propelled their tiny business into a global corporation, Bourns, Inc., which today manufactures a range of products that impact almost every aspect of the electronics industry.

The Bourns Foundation was established in 1956 as a nonprofit corporation to support charitable and educational causes. In addition to its generous support of UCR, the Bourns Foundation has helped numerous nonprofit organizations. The Bourns Foundation places an emphasis on supporting science, technology, education and math (“STEM”) programs as well as other needs in the local community.

Marlan and Rosemary Bourns served on the first Board of Directors and remained active on the Board for over thirty years. Marlan and Rosemary’s son Gordon L. Bourns is the current Chairman of the Bourns Foundation and CEO of Bourns, Inc. Gordon and his sisters Linda Hill, Anita Macbeth and Denise Moyles, as well as Marlan and Rosemary’s grandson Gordon L. (Lee) Bourns II, currently serve as directors for The Bourns Foundation.

In recognition of a generous gift from the Bourns Foundation in 1994, the engineering college at UC Riverside (“UCR”) was named the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns College of Engineering (“Bourns College of Engineering”) and the first engineering building was named Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Hall. This initial investment in UCR’s new college helped propel its growth and made possible the success it enjoys today. In only 25 years, the Bourns College of Engineering has distinguished itself through faculty leadership in research and teaching, partnerships with industry and government, engagement with local and global communities, remarkable growth, and top-tier rankings.

Although Marlan and Rosemary Bourns have both passed away, the Bourns College of Engineering serves as a living legacy at UCR that continues to drive innovation and education in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM).

University of California President Janet Napolitano launched the Presidential Match for Endowed Chairs program on July 16, 2014. The objective of the program is to spur private giving to UC through a matching fund that could add 100 endowed faculty chairs to the UC system over the next five years. Each President’s match will be $500,000 and campuses must raise at least $500,000 per chair in donor funds to qualify for the match. This program is vital to UC’s efforts to attract and retain top-flight faculty. Once established, these endowed chairs will provide a dedicated source of funds, in perpetuity, for the chair holder’s scholarly activities as well as support for faculty salaries and graduate fellowships.

The Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering will be under the direction of the Dean of the Bourns College of Engineering in accordance with established University policies and procedures. The chair holder will have a distinguished record as an engineer, a researcher and an educator, and will have ties to the Bourns College of Engineering.

In accordance with the gift instrument, campus guidelines and University policy, the annual payout from the Regents chair fund would be made available to the chair holder as a scholarly allowance to support research and teaching. The annual payout from the UC Riverside Foundation fund would be transferred to The Regents to be made available to support faculty salaries or graduate fellowships in the chair holder’s department. Chair appointments are determined by campus guidelines.

Subject to approval through the appropriate policies and procedures of the University of California, Riverside ("UCR"), and the Regents of the University of California ("The Regents" or the "University"), and pending receipt of funds as described below, Chair Funds shall be used to establish the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering ("Chair").

B. The Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Fund, a true endowment to be held by the UC Riverside Foundation, shall be established when (i) this gift agreement has been executed by the Donor, an authorized official of the University, an authorized officer of the UC Riverside Foundation, and the Dean of the Bourns College of Engineering; and (ii) the Donor’s pledge has been fully funded.
   - The Donor agrees to make payments of $95,240 annually for five years beginning December 31, 2014, with the final payment due on or before December 31, 2018. Donor understands that the University will send reminder notices in accordance with this schedule.
   - The UC Riverside Foundation agrees to transfer to the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Fund contributions already received for the Rosemary Bourns Memorial Fund and the Marlan Bourns Memorial Fund totaling $23,800.

C. The Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Matching Fund, a fund functioning as an endowment to be held by The Regents, shall be established upon formal approval of the Chair by the President of the University. Approval will be contingent upon full funding of the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Fund by the Donor.

D. In the unlikely event that the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Fund does not receive the full pledged amount, the Chancellor of UCR is authorized to redesignate the purpose of this fund, taking into consideration Donor’s expressed wishes as to the designated purpose described in this document. Any University matching funds will be returned and the Chair will not be established.

E. The UC Riverside Foundation advises the Bourns Foundation to obtain tax advice regarding this gift. In recognition of UCR’s intent to rely upon this commitment, this pledge is a binding legal obligation and enforceable against Donor’s assets.

F. Additions to the Fund can be made at any time.

III. PURPOSE AND USE OF CHAIR FUNDS

A. General Purpose

The expendable distribution from the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Fund shall be transferred to The Regents and shall be used to support faculty salary and/or graduate fellowships in the chair holder’s department. The chair holder will have a distinguished record as an engineer, a researcher and an educator, and will have ties to the Bourns College of Engineering.

[Signatures]
The expendable distribution from the Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Matching Fund shall be used to provide the appointed chair holder a scholarly allowance to support research and teaching.

Distributions shall be made under the direction of the Dean of the Bourns College of Engineering in accordance with established UCR policies and procedures.

The establishment of the Chair Funds will comply with current policies of The Regents and the UC Riverside Foundation. If, in the judgment of the Chancellor of UCR, the designated use of the Chair Funds payout is impractical or impossible, then the Chancellor may, in consultation with the Donor, when possible, use the Chair Funds’ expendable distribution for such other purposes at UCR as the Chancellor determines to be consistent with Donor’s interests and intentions.

IV. ADMINISTRATION OF FUNDS

A. The Chair Funds will be administered in accordance with the UCR Policies and Procedures on Endowed Professorships: Establishment, Administration, and Appointment of Faculty.

B. The Chair Funds’ expendable distribution will be determined periodically under the terms of the Endowment Expenditure Policy as established by the UC Riverside Foundation and The Regents.

Total return earned by the Chair Funds in excess of the amount approved for distribution shall be retained in the Chair Funds’ principal to protect the Chair Funds from the effects of inflation and to allow for growth. Any unexpended distribution from the previous year may be combined with that of the current year for spending purposes or added to the Chair Funds’ principal.

The principal of the Chair Funds may be combined with other funds for investment purposes.

Fiduciary responsibility for governance and investment of the Chair Funds is vested in the UC Riverside Foundation Board of Trustees and the Chief Investment Officer of The Regents.

C. As is customary with universities and other non-profit organizations across the country, a one-time gift fee is applied to each pledge payment (gift) in order to provide essential support to UCR’s advancement program. We understand that the fee is currently 5%. In addition, after the one-time fee has been satisfied, administrative fees will be charged in accordance with UCR policy.

V. STEWARDSHIP

The Marlan & Rosemary Bourns Presidential Chair in Engineering Fund is testament to the value the Donor places on the long-term sustainability of the Bourns College of Engineering and faculty achievement. The Donor will receive periodic stewardship reports from the University on the Fund.

The Donor agrees that this Fund and its name may be used in University communications.

Justification:
Per overview of recommendation from BCOE Breadth Requirements Review Committee, this regulation change is being submitted in order to open the “Humanities C” list to courses outside the science history. The list of approved breadth classes for BCOE was seen as too restrictive. The newly approved structure provides a substantially greater range of options for our students, and allows them greater freedom to complement their technical backgrounds with coursework from both the humanities and the social sciences.

RE: Report of the meeting of the UC Academic Senate Assembly, February 11, 2015 and April 15, 2015

Summary of the February 11th meeting:
The chair provided an update on the November Regents meeting during which Governor Brown appointed Gareth Elliott to the UC board of Regents. Mr. Elliott used to serve in the legislative affairs secretary office in Governor Brown’s administration and was working in a lobbying firm in Sacramento before being appointed. This last appointment comes on the heels of the appointment of several ex officio members of the Regents who are mostly politicians. This new composition has significantly changed the dynamics of the Regents meetings. New member of the regents. Other topics of discussion included salaries of UCOP employees and coaches incentive for academic achievement.

The Regents meeting also included a discussion regarding the “commission on the future”, which was proposed by the Governor proposed to discuss 3 year degree and other education matters. This committee was initially going to have several individuals, but President Napolitano negotiated to make this a committee of 2 that is composed of herself and the Governor. The Regents approved this committee of 2. This poses a challenge as matters pertaining to education were delegated by the regents to the faculty and normally fall under the senate.

The Governor appointed Lark Park to oversee higher education on his staff. She was on the human health and services and for the last 4 years and served a similar role in the 10 years prior to this. Ms. Park reached out to the Senate to discuss faculty evaluation (the balance between education, research and service) has taken place with the senate.

Governor’s has proposed a 4% increase for the UC budget, which translates into a 1.7% increase in UC core budget. He also tied the 4% increase to no increase in tuition and no increase in the number of out of state students. The regents initially voted on a 20% tuition increase, but the Governor who vetoed several proposals to increase UC budget blocked their efforts. This is very concerning and hopefully the committee of 2 can resolved these budget issues. Other budgetary concerns include the severe cuts to the UC program that supports UC faculty and graduate students to engage with our national laboratories. The graduate fellowship program approved by the Regents was also suspended. This puts the research mission of the post-graduate education at the UC National laboratories in jeopardy.

The chair also discussed the current proposal to select 15 community colleges to each have a baccalaureate program that does not overlap with any major that is currently offered by a UC or CSU campus. There is however no designated body to identify and deal with overlap. The community colleges have prepared a proposal and they are soliciting letter of support from the UC, which the senate will probably have to graciously decline.

BOARS endorsed a proposal to streamline transfers to UC. UCOP is trying to identify appropriate people on each campus for each major and working to identify ways to make pre-requisites more uniform across campuses. This is confusing for students trying to improve their chances of getting into a UC by applying to multiple campuses. Chair was looking for help identifying the appropriate people who can help with this process.

Proposed amendment to Senate Bylaw 155, Academic Computing and Communications passed. Amendment to Senate Bylaw 50A passed.

Confidential advocacies offices are now opening on all campuses to comply with VAWA. The expectations for faculty are currently unclear. VAWA training is available and there is a discussion of possibly folding it into the sexual harassment training. However, VAWA training has to be ongoing so more discussion is needed.

Report of the meeting of the UC Academic Senate Assembly, April 15, 2015

During the April 15th meeting:
The chair provided an update on the recent efforts to streamline UC transfer policies in order to provide some uniformity in the process by which students transfer from community colleges to the UC while still maintaining the high quality of the students. Efforts are currently focused on obtaining consensus on the pre-requisites for degrees in various fields of study. The goal is to “streamline” 10 majors and meeting with the Life Sciences representative had taken place with meetings with Natural and Social Sciences planned in the near future. The chair also provided an update on the progress made by the “committee of two” formed by Governor Brown and President Napolitano. The goal of this committee is to find solutions to address the funding shortfall to the UC while avoiding tuition increases. The Governor has been visiting the UC campuses to meet with leadership teams to learn more about the difference between the CSU and UC systems.

The provost gave additional updates regarding the ongoing debate over the UC budget. President Napolitano has began the 2015-2016 campus budget debates and the emphasis has been on making strategic choices in faculty hiring, developing long term plans and more importantly metric to measure progress of these strategic plans. There also seem to be a lot of discussions regarding medical centers and how they fit into the campus they are affiliated with. The provost also discussed the launch of a database that contains all activities pertaining to the UC-Mexico initiative that can be found at www.maxim.ucsd.edu/ucmexico/. Finally, the latest draft of VAWA is out for review and faculty are encouraged to provide feedback.

James Chalfant was unanimously voted to become the next vice chair.

The UCFW committee provided a report on the self funded PPO UC-CARE. This was deployed 16 months ago to save healthcare costs while increasing efficiency. The process had a rocky start but seems to be improving. There are no immediate plans to remove Kaiser plans, but there are plans to consider a UC CARE HMO that may be rolled out in 2017. Discussions about the selection of the 3rd party administrator as well as other aspects of the plan (premium, co-pay, deductible, access, coverage, etc…) are still being discussed.
The Committee is pleased to nominate Distinguished Professor John Fisher from the Department of Philosophy as a recipient of the Distinguished Campus Service Award for the academic year 2014-2015. Since he arrived at the University in 1988, Professor Fischer has been a stalwart member of the Philosophy department and the campus community. He was the Director of the University Honors Program from (1996-2004). During his eight years as director, which is the longest anyone has served in that role, the UHP added a summer component and significantly re-conceptualized, enlarged, and upgraded every part of the UHP, including adding an emphasis on campus and community service to encourage Honors students to “payback” the campus for their opportunities. Professor Fischer served as Department Chair (2007-2012), was a member of Faculty Welfare Committee (2005-2007), served on Educational Policy Committee (1990-1993), served as Chair of the Humanities and Social Sciences Executive Committee “Chair of the Faculty” (1993-1994), served as a faculty advisor and mentor, and has served on 13 Ad Hoc Committees for Merits and Promotions (1996-present). Professor Fischer’s campus service includes a range of capacities honoring UCR’s highest academic achieving undergrads, such as Secretary/Treasurer of UCR’s Phi Beta Kappa chapter and numerous scholarship committees including Rhodes/Marshall. In 2012, Professor Fischer received a five million dollar grant from the John Templeton Foundation to fund research on immortality and radical life extension. Among the many things he is funding with this money, and other money he has raised through other sources, is a year-long series of public lectures the past two academic years. He has done a huge amount of “public outreach” in connection with this project, including more than 100 “media hits” through interviews and articles on the project in media venues throughout the world. This grant contributes to campus service in that it has brought visibility and money to UCR, and through the number of people flowing through campus in connection with the grant both as speakers, students, and audiences. Professor Fischer exemplifies campus-wide service that extends beyond his academic duties.
COMMITTEE ON DISTINGUISHED CAMPUS SERVICE

NOMINATION FOR THE 2014-2015 DISTINGUISHED CAMPUS SERVICE AWARD

PROFESSOR MICHAEL ALLEN

The committee is pleased to nominate Professor Michael Allen from the Department of Plant Pathology and Microbiology as a recipient of the Distinguished Campus Service Award for the academic year 2014-2015. Since moving his research group to UCR in 1998, Professor Allen has served in numerous significant capacities. He serves this campus by leading and directing the Center for Conservation Biology (CCB) since 1998, to successfully advance the fields of Ecology, Conservation Biology, and Biodiversity Studies on campus. He has grown the center to 100 faculty and he and his colleagues have been the recipients of numerous grants and awards. Professor Allen is also a founding member of new Geoecology and Environmental Dynamics Institute. In both of these activities his commitment is directed towards improving the infrastructure and capacity of the university for research and education. Professor Allen has served as Chair of two departments at UCR: Plant Pathology and Microbiology (July 2003-June 2010; July 2011-June 2012) and Biology (July 2014-present). During his time as chair, funding the department increased steadily, and when he stepped down research expenditures were nearly $5.9 million (not including CCB grants). He currently serves as Chair of the Committee on Research, has served on the Planning Committee for the School of Public Policy, the UC Mexus Advisory Committee, the UCR 2020 Academic Excellence Subcommittee and the Chancellor’s Financial Advisory Committee. He has also served on numerous individual reviews, faculty and administrative position searches and student committees. Professor Allen has served in several capacities system wide, mainly with the UC-Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources (UC-DANR) and with the UC Institute for Mexico and the United States (UC-MEXUS). Professor Allen is tireless when it comes to activities beyond the campus, such as breakfasts and dinners with job candidates, hosting dinners at home for work related events, and weekend field trips. Professor Allen’s service activities also have a substantial impact on campus research. One of the main activities of the CCB has traditionally been to bring teams of researchers together to pursue interdisciplinary research and training grants. It is his level of service, that goes beyond the position titles and items that can be included in e-file, that make the difference in terms of program building and long-term impacts at UCR.
In more than four decades at the University of California, Riverside, Dr. Carl Cranor has enabled an exceptionally broad and appreciative spectrum of students and teaching assistants to appreciate the interface between philosophy, science and the law. He was one of the founding faculty members of the Law and Society Program and developed its core course. Through this joint pre-law major he reaches students from several CHASS departments. Dr. Cranor is also a faculty member in the CNAS Environmental Toxicology Graduate Program to which he contributes research expertise in the regulation of toxic pollutants and the use of scientific evidence in legal decisions. His large upper division audiences are encouraged to participate in rigorous discussion of legal cases and statutes. They describe the course contents as fresh and immediate. They discover an enthusiastic, caring instructor with a sophisticated perspective on regulation, coupled with a hopeful view of risk management. Dr. Cranor promotes the general learning environment at UCR as a representative of the Phi Beta Kappa chapter. When the national office chose him to deliver the 2014-15 Romanell Lecture series, he arranged to reach the wider Riverside community by holding one lecture at the County courthouse.

To quote a faculty colleague: “By bringing theory into play against the morass of existing laws and regulations, Carl has been able to inspire his students to make a vivid connection between the nature of justice and its practice in our courts. Carl’s students have gone on to carry out these lessons well, as lawyers, regulators, and judges.”
Each year the Graduate Council and Graduate Division present the Doctoral Dissertation Advisor/Mentor Award to one or two UCR faculty members who have made outstanding contributions to the training of advanced graduate students. It is my pleasure to announce that this year’s winner is Vyjayanthi Chari.

Dr. Vyjayanthi Chari is a Professor in the Department of Mathematics. She received her BS (1976) and PhD (1988) in Mathematics from Bombay University. She has been at UCR since 1991, where she started as an Associate Professor and is presently investigating new directions in Lie Theory. Over the years, Dr. Chari has mentored an impressive number of graduate students—27 in total; however, her students uniformly report that Dr. Chari provided timely guidance for professional, educational, and personal matters. Many students cited Dr. Chari as one of the most influential people in their lives. Furthermore, it is clear both from the eloquent nature of the supporting letters and the prestigious positions held by those who wrote them that Dr. Chari produces articulate, successful mentees. For her many efforts in mentoring graduate students, she is being honored with the Doctoral Dissertation Advisor/Mentor Award.
FACULTY RESEARCH LECTURER COMMITTEE

NOMINATION FOR THE FACULTY RESEARCH LECTURER FOR THE YEAR 2015-2016

PROFESSOR XUEMEI CHEN, DEPARTMENT OF BOTANY AND PLANT SCIENCES, INSTITUTE OF INTEGRATIVE PLANT SCIENCES, INSTITUTE OF INTEGRATIVE GENOME BIOLOGY.

From its inception well over half a century ago, the Faculty Research Lecturer Award has been the highest honor that the Academic Senate bestows. The Committee listed below, composed of five previous Faculty Research Lecturers, is delighted to nominate, Xuemei Chen, Professor of Botany and Plant Sciences for this honor for the year 2015-2016.

Ten exceptional faculty members across all the three Colleges at the University were placed for the nomination. The committee is extremely impressed by the very high academic, research and professional activities across the different disciplines represented. The committee selected Professor Xuemei Chen for her demonstrated brilliance as a geneticist and developmental biologist. Professor Chen has been nationally and internationally recognized for her scientific accomplishments. She has been elected (2013) as a member of the National Academy of Sciences. She has been given a Howard Hughes Medical Institute and Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation Investigator Award (2012-2017), and the Charles Albert Shull Award (2006) from the American Society of Plant Biologists.

Professor Chen has outstanding research accomplishments in the field of small RNA biology. She has an extraordinarily productive research program that has made seminal discoveries of key biological mechanisms in plants and other organisms. A nominator writes that, “Without any doubt, the discovery of small RNA as critical regulatory molecules of biological processes is one of the most important and exciting breakthroughs in the life sciences of the past 15 years.”

Another nominator writes that, “Dr. Chen is exceptional in her brilliance as both a geneticist and developmental biologist. Her discovery of microRNAs in the control of plant flower development is a classic tour de force of genetic expertise, guided by a sophisticated sense of underlying developmental mechanisms.”

Yet another nominator writes, “Xuemei is a fantastic colleague: supportive, engaging, and of course a truly gifted and insightful scientist. She has tremendous leadership qualities, demonstrated at a national level through her service on a variety of boards, and her work has built a sterling reputation in the community of plant biologists.”

In recognition of her enormous creativity and path-breaking accomplishments, the Senate Committee on Faculty Research Lecturer unanimously and enthusiastically nominates Professor Xuemei Chen as the Faculty Research Lecturer for 2015-2016.

Proposed Changes to Regulation 6 Campus Graduation Requirements
(R6.13 & R6.14)

PRESENT: PROPOSED:

R6.13 General Education Concentration Options: Concentrations are permitted during a five-year pilot period starting Fall 2009 as alternative general education breadth requirements, but not replacing the Ethnic Studies and University writing requirements. The availability of concentrations may differ by College, depending on approval as per Bylaws 9 and 10 (En 17 Feb 09 and 19 May 2009, Am 25 May 10). The Regulations of each College provide information about concentration options available in each College. (En 30 Nov 2010)

R6.14 (for undergraduates) In cases of student misconduct, the student’s College Executive Committee may defer or withhold his or her degree for a specified period of time. The Dean of Students may recommend such an action to the College Executive Committee. (En May 24, 2011)

R6.13 (for undergraduates) In cases of student misconduct, the student’s College Executive Committee may defer or withhold his or her degree for a specified period of time. The Dean of Students may recommend such an action to the College Executive Committee. (En May 24, 2011)

Justification:
The five year pilot period for the General Education Concentration Options expired at the end of Summer 2014. The Committee on Educational Policy (CEP) was instructed to recommend for or against renewing the program. CEP consulted with the CHASS and SoBA college executive committees who adopted the pilot program, the Office of the Registrar, undergraduate advising staff, and a member of the ad hoc committee that developed the original proposal. CEP learned that several CHASS students participated in the program during the first year, but none have participated since then. CEP verified that no students are currently completing the program. Apparently the program was difficult to administer and students were averse to the additional workload. CEP did not find any support for continuing the program. Despite the compelling rationale for developing the program initially, CEP recommends against renewing the program.

Approvals:

Justification:
The Committee proposes that the Registrar be removed as an administrative representative to the Committee as the Registrar's functions no longer fall in the area of preparatory education. If an issue arises that needs the Registrar's consultation, they will be invited to attend a meeting as a guest.

To be adopted: Proposed New B.S. in Sustainability Studies

PRESENT:  PROPOSED:

Sustainability is broadly understood as the pursuit of a livable world for all human and non-human life at present and in the future. The Sustainability Studies Bachelor of Science degree offered by the Gender and Sexuality Studies Department investigates the historical and contemporary ways environments change, and are changed by, human activity. Focusing on a range of challenges to sustainability including climate change, air and water pollution, toxic contamination, energy demands, economic growth, agricultural production, and environmental injustice, the B.S. curriculum offers a comparative, interdisciplinary, transnational approach to the theories and practices of building a sustainable future. Courses in gender and sustainability, natural and earth sciences, engineering, health and medicine, cultural studies, policy, media, and social sciences prepare students to respond to challenges to local, regional, and global sustainability. Students will be trained in feminist paradigms and methodologies associated with intersectionality, dialogue, and relation. Through in-depth, engaged learning experiences, this major educates global citizens who will be prepared for careers in industry, health care, public service, policy advocacy, education, and social activism relevant to sustainability.

This is a major that accommodates CNAS transfers who have considerable amounts of training in science and aspire to get an interdisciplinary education in sustainability. This major also encourages students to do internships with local environmental organizations, health advocates, and other institutions as well as to broaden their perspectives through the study abroad program.

A Proposal for

Bachelor of Science Degree Program in

Sustainability Studies

Gender and Sexuality Studies Department
Riverside, CA

Submitted by:
Marguerite Waller, Chair and Professor, Gender & Sexuality Studies and Comparative Literature
Chikako Takeshita, Associate Professor, Gender & Sexuality Studies
Juliann Allison, Associate Professor, Gender & Sexuality Studies and Public Policy
Jade Sasser, Assistant Professor, Gender & Sexuality Studies
1. Name and administrator of the proposed program

Department that will administer the program: Gender and Sexuality Studies
Name of academic program: B.S. in Sustainability Studies

2. Justification:

Two years ago we were approached by CHASS Associate Dean of Undergraduate Education, Peter Graham, concerning the possibility of our offering a Bachelor of Science Degree. Many UCR students receive extensive training in the sciences, but wish to take their scientific education in interdisciplinary directions that include work in sustainability, health, human rights, critical epistemology, critical thinking about race, class, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality, public policy, and community involvement. At the same time, the GSST Department was exploring ways to extend its commitment to interdisciplinarity to include the STEM fields. We also perceived that sustainability studies was not prominently represented in the campus curriculum and that this new field called for just the kind of interdisciplinary, transnational epistemology and methodology we had been successfully developing over the past twenty years. In anticipation of establishing the new GSST B.S. in Sustainability Studies, the EVC and Dean approved a new line in the department in the area of Feminist Political Ecology/Sustainability Studies, leading to the hire of Dr. Jade Sasser, one of the designers of this proposal.

As a broad consensus of scholarly and journalistic accounts attest, issues related to climate change, environmental degradation, pollution, and the challenges we face in creating sustainable futures globally are inextricable—empirically, conceptually, politically, and economically—from the social constructions and lived realities of gender and sexuality (Rocheleau, Nixon, Klein). Vulnerable populations have been the first and the hardest hit by unsustainable practices of extraction, industrialization, finance, corporate agriculture, air and water pollution, environmental degradation and the forms of exploitation and denial of rights that accompany these (Cabezas, Reese, and Waller; Nixon; Kumar, Klein). Gender and sexuality have also played a prominent role across the globe in theorizing, developing, advocating, and implementing sustainable practices and shifting the dominant development paradigm from one of growth to one of sustainability (Akhter, Baum, Ezeilo, Kumar, Maathai, Moony, Shiva).

Motivations for creating this program have proliferated since we first began to conceptualize it. The urgency of achieving what UCR Sustainability Officer John Cook calls a “systems approach” and what faculty in Gender and Sexuality Studies call an “interdisciplinary, intersectional approach” to “sustainability literacy” has increased and will continue to increase as problems related to climate change snowball and intensify. Also catalyzing this initiative, the President of the UC system, Janet Napolitano, has made a commitment to ensure that all UCs are carbon neutral by 2025. The global situation in general and the UC position in particular call for new curricular initiatives to amplify and contextualize modifications to our everyday practices and physical infrastructure.

Yet student needs and interests remain at the heart of this proposal. Currently, many students in GSST are double majors with CNAS; an even larger number are double majoring in GSST and a social science. The social science departments are themselves severely impacted, particularly with students who have changed their majors from CNAS to CHASS and are seeking to integrate scientific approaches with social, political, and community interests. It is anticipated that the B.S. in Sustainability Studies will relieve pressure on these departments.

The R'Garden and several R’courses have taken the lead in creating courses and fieldwork opportunities in Sustainability Studies. A poll of graduating majors conducted in the spring of 2014 also indicated that many students wanted to integrate the disciplines of CNAS, Engineering, and CHASS in a coherent major. New GSST courses in Gender, Sustainability, and the Global South and The Politics of Food, have quickly enrolled to capacity and two more new courses, Environmental Health and Social Justice and Gender and Climate Change promise to do likewise. The department recently received a grant from the Office of Undergraduate Education to build an Internship program; twenty-two students immediately applied for the Spring Quarter pilot though which the department can offer work experience in cutting edge community-based sustainability initiatives. Also this Winter, members of the department developed and submitted Cluster Hire proposals in Sustainability and Social Justice and Urban Sustainability, which, if accepted, would bring to campus a cohort of new faculty members working in partnership to facilitate collaboration among experts in environmental science and engineering, social and health sciences, and humanities in an effort to define and address sustainability issues locally and globally.

Another motivation for the creation of this program is the development by a faculty committee on the UCR campus of a Certificate in Sustainability Literacy. Students will graduate with this certificate after having taken and passed a certain number of courses related to sustainability. The goal is for 90% of UCR students to earn this designation. Our course offerings in the Sustainability Studies B.S. are likely to be in great demand by students fulfilling the requirements for the certificate, while the B.S. itself will create a core group of majors giving the field definition. These majors and certificate holders will find themselves well situated to continue their studies in one of the 465 Masters Degree programs now available at universities across the U.S. Students who earn a GSST B.S. in Sustainability Studies will be well-prepared to pursue a broad range of careers in public service, industry, policy-making, administration, health, food and agriculture, education, media, community and lab-based research, and non-profit organizations focused on the environment.

3. Relationship to the existing program
The GSST B.S. in Sustainability is an organic outgrowth of the department’s current curriculum, linking it with an inclusive range of campus offerings in sustainability-related courses including environmental science and environmental studies, natural resource use, wildlife ecology, climate change, environmental economics and management, health and medicine, media production, cultural studies, and public policy.

The GSST interdisciplinary curriculum includes offerings in gender, science, and technology; epistemologies; globalization and development; transnational understandings of the construction and intersectional operation of categories of gender, sexuality, race, nationality, ethnicity, class, and religion, gender and sustainability; the politics of food; the politics of borders; environmental health and social justice; gender and climate change; gender and revolution, gender and politics in global perspective; gender, labor, and economics; and the emergent field of trans studies as it forges new understandings of healthy bodies and minds and engages health and well-being as outcomes of economic, environmental, education, health care, immigration and other institutional policies.

This program will have minimal overlap but great complementarily with the Environmental Sustainability Option being developed within the Environmental Sciences Undergraduate major. The Environmental Sciences Department program will emphasize technology and environmental management solutions and focus primarily on the sustainable use of water, air, soil and ecosystems, while the GSST B. S. will emphasize an interdisciplinary intersectional approach in its focus on the political, social, and epistemological ramifications of working toward sustainability.

4. Proposed curriculum

Please see proposed curriculum below. Care has been taken to correlate the B.S. with the existing B.A. in GSST. One more course is required for the B.S., but this is offset by the campus’s language requirement for B.S. degrees, which is one quarter less than the requirement for the B.A.

The B.S. curriculum includes a new lower division course, GSST 021: Gender and Sustainability that introduces students to the role of gender analysis in understanding the impacts of human society on the natural environment. This course maintains the global perspective of GSST 20, but focuses on the issue of sustainability in global perspective. The B.S. also requires a different version of the department’s capstone methods course (191C rather than 191B), which has just been approved by the CEP. Other notable features of the proposed curriculum are its flexibility (allowing students to formulate different trajectories), its options for students already well-prepared in science and/or technology, and its accommodation of transfer students. The B.S. includes a quantitative requirement, which may be fulfilled by taking an appropriate math, social science, or science course.
Proposed Changes to Sustainability Studies

PROPOSED:

Program Description
Sustainability is broadly understood as the pursuit of a livable world for all human and non-human life at present and in the future. The Sustainability Studies Bachelor of Science degree offered by the Gender and Sexuality Studies Department investigates the historical and contemporary ways environments change, and are changed by, human activity. Focusing on a range of challenges to sustainability including climate change, air and water pollution, toxic contamination, energy demands, economic growth, agricultural production, and environmental injustice, the B.S. curriculum offers a comparative, interdisciplinary, transnational approach to the theories and practices of building a sustainable future. Courses in gender and sustainability, natural and earth sciences, engineering, health and medicine, cultural studies, policy, media, and social sciences prepare students to respond to challenges to local, regional, and global sustainability. Students will be trained in feminist paradigms and methodologies associated with intersectionality, dialogue, and relation. Through in-depth, engaged learning experiences, this major educates global citizens who will be prepared for careers in industry, health care, public service, policy advocacy, education, and social activism relevant to sustainability.

6. Shared administration of the program

This program will be administered by the GSST Department.

7. Projected enrollment in the program

The enrollment in the program as projected by Associate Dean Graham is between 200 and 225 undergraduates

8. Name and the anticipated number of degrees offered

B.S. in Sustainability Studies

Anticipated number of degrees to be granted when program reaches steady state: Approximately 50 per year.
9. Potential impact on existing programs and other departments

It is anticipated that the new B.S. will increase the number of majors in GSST, which currently teaches large numbers of students but has the capacity to serve more majors. It is also designed to relieve pressure on impacted departments, particularly in the social sciences. It will contribute significantly to the strength and uniqueness of GSST’s proposed Ph.D. program, which will be updated and resubmitted in 2015-16. Concerning the many other departments in which B.S. students will take courses, no one of them is likely to be significantly impacted. Students have a wide range of choices in fulfilling the degree requirements, and no one course or department is likely to enroll more than a handful. The core and elective courses in sustainability offered by the department, conversely, are likely to attract students from across campus and may need to be offered in a large lecture format. Approvals from the departments listed under item #12 are included in a separate file. See item #10 below for details concerning resources that will be needed by GSST.

10. Resources required for start-up and operations:

a. It is anticipated that as the degree program grows, one new faculty FTE dedicated to the B.S. will be needed, in addition to professor Sasser, to deepen the curriculum and alternate administrative and advisory responsibilities across sabbaticals.

The GSST department currently has 3 permanent TA positions per year (beginning in 2015-16). It is anticipated that with the new B.S. a 4th permanent TA will be required, allowing GSST 001 to be offered to 300 students per quarter with one instructor and 12 sections. As other courses increase in size due to the B.S. and to the Sustainability Certificate, 1 more TA-ship will likely be needed for GSST 21 and GSST 100. Since these courses do not need to be offered three times a year, this TA ship could be split between these two courses. As soon as the department has its Ph.D. program in place, these TA ships would logically be drawn from among its own graduate students.

The MDU staff seems already stretched to maximum capacity. The new B.S. would not be unique among the programs served by the MDU in advocating for an increase in staffing.

No new computer facilities are required.

The subject specialist librarian for gender and sexuality studies has been consulted. The Library’s collections should be adequate to accommodate the needs for the Sustainability Studies Bachelor of Science degree of the Gender and Sexuality Studies Department. The Library will be able to purchase the majority of required titles it does not currently hold. In anticipation of 2015 Fall Quarter offerings of GSST courses on gender and sustainability, the Library can purchase titles during the Spring and Summer Quarters 2015.

Summary:

1 new faculty FTE
2 new TA ships
Increase in MDU staff in line with requests from other departments and programs served by the MDU.

b. Support services and space:

1 new faculty office on the second floor of INTN would be needed. One of the interior offices in INTN 2033, the departmental office, might be available. This space is controlled by the MDU.

2 TA offices on the second floor of INTN would be needed. Office space for TAs is allocated and administered by the MDU.

Support for the Internship program is being provided by the Office of Undergraduate Education.

c. Plans for obtaining resources

Most resources are already available or will be requested from the MDU and/or the CHASS Dean’s office. The GSST department was awarded a grant from the UE office to support the Internship program and was encouraged to reapply next year for a UE grant to support the new capstone GSST 191C course. It is expected that the department and faculty in the department will continue to apply for both intra and extra-mural grants to support the new B.S. In particular, last summer a group of faculty explored the possibility of applying for an NSF grant for Hispanic Serving Institutions that would support undergraduate research and travel to the annual Climate Change Conference.

Chair, Gender and Sexuality Studies

Dear Margie,

I am happy to support the Department of Gender and Sexuality Studies’ proposal for a BS in Sustainability Studies. Such a major is essential for a campus that was named one of The Princeton Review’s 322 Green Colleges. A CHASS major in sustainability studies complements the environmental science and related majors available to students in CNAS. It also reflects UCR’s institutional commitment to sustainability, which includes: academics and research, built environment, energy and climate protection, food, procurement, recycling and waste management, sites, and transportation.

I would like to add that the availability of a Sustainability Studies major designed to provide scientific literacy and methodological training for social science and other CHASS students introduces potentially significant synergies for undergraduate Public Policy majors. I expect our majors who focus on Urban/Environmental Policy, in particular, will take advantage of new course offerings in sustainability. Some may even opt to double major.

I expect the major in Sustainability Studies will be very popular among UCR’s undergraduates and look forward to its success.

Dear Margie,

The proposed BS in Sustainability Studies will be an excellent addition to the offerings of the department of Gender and Sexuality studies. In addition to developing an attractive major that draws on university-wide resources, offering students a broad, interdisciplinary approach to the study of sustainability, it will encourage the development of new courses in which students in other programs like Global Studies will certainly enroll. I am certain that the students in GBST will be very interested in these new offerings.

Re: Support letter for the GSST B.S. in Sustainability Studies

Dear Members of the UCR Academic Senate:

The Anthropology Department is very pleased to support the B.S. in Sustainability Studies being proposed by the Gender and Sexuality Studies Department.

Sustainability is one of the critically important topics in Anthropology, with several recent international conferences dedicated to Anthropology and Sustainability, including those of CASA (Conference on Anthropology and Sustainability in Asia) and ICASA (International Conference on Anthropology and Sustainability in Asia). The AAA (American Anthropological Association) meetings last year included several sections dedicated to Sustainability.

There has also been a proliferation of books on Anthropology and Sustainability including an Environment in Anthropology Reader. Nationally and globally we are seeing the development of many undergraduate and graduate programs in Environmental Anthropology and Cultural Sustainability. Students will have a wealth of further education and career paths to choose from when they graduate with this B.S.

We appreciate the synergy that the new B.S. program will create among departments already offering courses in Sustainability Studies at UCR. The proposed curriculum takes many resources already available and puts them in new relationships with one another. In addition, we support the effort being made by the GSST Department and Associate Dean Peter Graham to alleviate some of the enrollment pressure on Anthropology in such a substantive and creative way.

We look forward to working with this new program.

Dear Margie,

I write to express my support for the Department of Gender and Sexuality Studies’ proposal for a BS in Sustainability Studies.

Such a major would have real synergies with Environmental Science and other majors and courses in CNAS. It would also be consistent with UCR’s institutional commitment to sustainability, which includes: academics and research, built environment, energy and climate protection, food, procurement, recycling and waste management, sites, and transportation.

I understand that the following upper division Political Science courses would be listed as meeting requirements for Sustainability Studies majors: POSC 106, POSC 127, POSC 137, POSC 139, POSC 160, POSC 180, POSC 189. This has my full support.

In my view, a Sustainability Studies would meet a real need among our undergraduates, and I expect it would be quite popular and successful.

Sincerely,
John Medearis

Dear UCR Academic Senate,

I am writing this letter in support of the newly proposed Bachelor of Science in Sustainability Studies through the Gender and Sexuality Studies Department.

Sustainability stands as one of the next emerging fields for undergraduate and graduate education and research. The richness of the field would allow for a wide variety of disciplinary approaches. Sustainability Studies will complement existing sustainability related programs in Environmental Engineering and Environmental Science by bringing into focus the third foundational pillar of sustainability -- social equity. Currently, UC offers 57 courses across 20 departments either focused on, or related to sustainability, but no major or minor degree in Sustainability.

With the establishment of the School of Public Policy, and its burgeoning program on Climate and Sustainability Policy at the Masters level, the undergraduate major in Sustainability Studies provides a preparatory degree for UCR students who would like to pursue graduate studies, and an opportunity for cross-listing courses between Gender and Sexuality Studies and Public Policy at the upper level undergraduate and graduate ranking. PBPL 129 is an excellent example of just such a collaboration, where students from Gender and Sexuality Studies, Public Policy, Anthropology and Environmental Sciences came together to learn a common methodology for understanding sustainability that was applicable within all of the diverse disciplines represented.

The GSST Sustainability Studies major also offers another avenue for the campus to fulfill its obligation as a signatory to the American College and University Presidents’ Climate Commitment UCR to provide climate literacy to all undergraduates. UCR is currently developing a Certification in Sustainability Literacy which would draw heavily upon GSST sustainability faculty and courses during its earliest implementation.

Sincerely,

Dear Chairs and Dean Deolalikar,

I am writing to request your approval of a new B.S. degree in Sustainability Studies that the Gender and Sexuality Studies Department would like to submit to the Dean and to the Executive Committee by Wednesday, March 18.

To give you a little history, Peter Graham, Associate Dean of Undergraduate Studies, asked us year before last to develop a B.S. that could help relieve the highly impacted social science departments. He felt that we had done very well by our majors and that many students would welcome the opportunity to continue their science education in an interdisciplinary frame.

We identified Sustainability Studies as a good fit with what we already do and an urgent curricular need at UCR. In anticipation of the creation of the new B.S. in Sustainability Studies, we were awarded a new faculty FTE in Feminist Political Ecology/Sustainability Studies, which was successfully filled last spring. Our new colleague Dr. Jade Sasser, has been working throughout the Fall and Winter quarters to shape and strengthen the proposed curriculum.

I am writing to you for your approval because courses offered in your departments are included in this curriculum. Because of the program's flexibility, we do not anticipate that more than handful of GSST B.S. students would be taking any one of your courses, and these students might well have signed up for those courses anyway. In other words we do not anticipate that the new program will put a strain on your resources.

A fuller background account and justification are included in the proposal, which is attached here. Also attached is the curriculum itself and descriptions of all of the courses included in the curriculum.

Our timeline is tight. Like you, we have been immersed in cluster proposals, hiring etc. With apologies, could I ask you to get back to us by the end of the day tomorrow, Tuesday, March 17? A simple email will be sufficient.

Thank you very much.

Hi Marguerite,

Apologies for being late. I thought Monday would be ok, but reading your message below, I now see you wanted a reply by Sunday.

But in case it helps now, I don't have any reservations about the impact this program would have on our classes. I think we can absorb the extra students without difficulty.

I don't have a strong opinion one way or the other on the idea of the new degree. I don't fully understand the connection between sustainability and gender and sexuality, so I'd really need to learn more about that before I could express an informed opinion.

RE: Conversations between GSST and ENSC concerning BS proposal

Ken Baerenklau has asked me to prepare the following summary of interactions between Gender and Sexuality Studies and Environmental Sciences.

As part of submitting a new BS proposal in Sustainability Studies, we were asked to secure approvals from the chairs of departments that were included in our Major Requirements.

In response to our request for approval from ENSC, Jim Sickman responded with particular interest since his department is in the process of creating a sustainability track with the Environmental Sciences major. He noted in an email on March 17 that he saw no problem with students in our program taking ENCS 001 and ENSC 002, most of whose enrollments are drawn from CHASS already. With regard to the upper division ENSC 101 and 102 courses, he shared his concern that additional TA support might be needed for 101, which involves a lab, and that students might not have the necessary prerequisites for 101 and 102.

He also wanted time to discuss the proposal with the other ENSC faculty before deciding whether to support the GSST program.

In my response, I assured him that the number of students enrolling in the upper division courses was likely to be no more than a very few and that those students would, most likely have enrolled in those courses in any case. I also drew his attention to the statement in our Major Requirements that students must have the necessary prerequisites in order to enroll in any of the courses listed.

After Jim had a chance to consult with the ENSC faculty, he wrote back on April 2. Their concerns, he relayed, were two. First would the ENSC program and the GSST program overlap, and if so would the approval of our program make the approval of their program more difficult. Second, they had questions about the extent of the foundation in natural sciences that our students would be getting. We had, meanwhile, sent a document to Jim and two other CNAS faculty members giving a detailed description of the other BS degrees offered in CHASS and explaining the conceptual differences between a CNAS BS and a CHASS BS.

He summarized their deliberations as follows: “ENSC is prepared to approve the proposal if some text is added explaining the relationship between the two sustainability programs and if GSST will extend support to the Environmental Sustainability Option next year when it goes up for approval.” He also concluded that the amount and kind of science included in our proposal was not an issue, given our explanations in the proposal and in our follow-up email.

We enthusiastically agreed to both the stipulations made by ENSC, which we feel make our proposal stronger and which lay the groundwork for a very productive interaction between our two programs.

The language we agreed upon, which has been inserted in the proposal, reads as follows: “This program will have minimal overlap but great complementarity with the Environmental Sustainability Option being developed within the Environmental Sciences Undergraduate Major. The Environmental Sciences Department program will emphasize technology and environmental management solutions and focus primarily on the sustainable use of water, air, soil, and ecosystems, while the GSST BS will emphasize an interdisciplinary, intersectional approach in its focus on the political, social, and epistemological ramifications of working toward sustainability.”

We fully support the submission of their program next year.

The culmination of this interaction was an email from Jim Sickman, dated April 5, in which he says, “The text sounds great and ENSC approves the addendum and supports your proposed undergraduate program in sustainability. Thanks very much!”

I hope you find this summary helpful. Please let me know if you would like any further information or documentation.
