RE: Report of the Meeting of the UC Academic Senate Assembly, June 13, 2018

Some Assembly meetings are heated affairs, involving a succession of votes over contentious issues; other are dull and mercifully brief affairs. The Assembly meeting on 13 June 2018 definitively falls into the latter category.

The only reason for the meeting was to the urgent need to elect a Vice Chair for the University Committee on Committees and to ratify the new Secretary-Parliamentarian. That was accomplished very quickly, and after the President and Provost provided the predictably bland and cautiously optimistic overview of the situation in Oakland and Sacramento, the Assembly adjourned in what must be record time to universal rejoicing.
